Stuph & Thangs

JUSTICE DEPT. FINALLY WAKES UP . . .

MOVING? Please use form inside paper and give full information. Mailing list is run on Friday following week.

For most of its life the Packers & Stockyards Administration has been regarded as a toothless tiger in its efforts to round up the bad guys in the livestock & meat trade and a great deal of their utility stemmed from the fact that the Justice Department, which has to prosecute malefactors, couldn't seem to get any more excited about theft, embezzlement or swindles in the trade than they could about the news somebody had a chicken thief they wanted to see prosecuted.

No doubt, the thing that finally got the attention of Justice was the American Beef Packers fiasco which by its sheer size, running into millions and millions of dollars, got the enforcement officials aware of the fact that innocent farmers and ranchers and feeders were the victims of crime every bit as hurtful as bank robbery or illegal payments, or highjacking.

State By State Cattle On Feed Figures

There were 1,480,000 head of cattle and calves on feed for the slaughter market in Texas on June 1, according to the Texas Crop and Livestock Reporting Service. The current estimate is 8% below a year ago, but 3% above last month.

Texas cattle feeders placed 380,000 head into their lots during May. Placements are 24% above May 1976 and 10% above the previous month. There were 324,000 head of fat cattle marketed during May, 1% above May 1976 but 12% below last month's marketings. Other disappearance from feedlots was estimated at 18,000 head, 18% below a year earlier.

Arizona reported 337,000 cattle on feed June 1, 5% less than a year earlier. Cattle placed on feed amounted to 65,000 or 167% of the total in 1976.

California with 701,000 on feed, stood 12% below a year earlier. Placement of 178,000 on feed figured 22% less than last year.

Colorado with 880,000 in feedlots reflected an increase of 1% over last year. Placements totaled 219,000 or 161% of last year's inbound feeders.

Iowa had 1,220,000 on feed June 1, 6% fewer than last year. Placements at 190,000 head stood 14% above last year.

Kansas had 1,205,000 on feed, an increase of 1% over a year ago. Inbound feeders at 290,000 were 45% above a year ago.

Nebraska with 1,280,000 head on feed chalked up a 4% advance over a year earlier. Inbound feeders at 285,000 were 15% above a year earlier in May.

Replacement Cattle in Mixed Trade Last Week, Drought Hurts

Kansas City, June 17 (USDA) - National Feeder Cattle and Calf Summary. Approximately 195,000 this week, 208,600 last week, 197,000 last year.

Feeder cattle and calves at many points in the United States sold steady to 2.00 lower, yearlings in the Southeast 1.00-4.00 lower with southeastern calves 2.00 to as much as 7.00 lower. Some exceptions to the general tone were Sioux Falls, South Dakota steady to 1.00 higher on steers under 700 lbs.

St. Joseph and Kansas City steady to 1.00 higher on feeder heifers, Arkansas steady to 2.00 higher on heifers and Washington state steady to 2.00 higher on thin steers under 600 lbs. suitable to graze.

The slippage of finished cattle prices had put a general damper on yearling steers and heifers, particularly in the Southeast, but the situation on thin calves and lightweight yearlings had been dictated by moisture, the dry areas in a self-off situation and the relatively sparse locations in the country that have had good recent rains are in a buying position on thin under 600 lbs.

FDA and EPA Launch New Attacks on Use of Feed Additives, Pesticides, Careless Use Blamed for Problems

Government agencies concerned with agricultural and other chemicals appeared to be intensifying their opposition to feed additives and pesticides recently and with threats to ban some additional products which have been widely used for many years. The more heated flow of criticism was highlighted by the threat to withdraw sulfa drugs from use in swine production unless violations of residues found in pork did not "improve significantly". This blast from Dr. P. D. Cazier of the FDA.

Ernie Sims, Angus Breeder, Believes Performance Testing Key To Success

Bonham, Texas — Ernest W. Sims, owner of Ridgecrest Angus Farm south of here, has a small, but very select, herd of Angus cattle that have been produced on the test that "a pedigree shows what cattle should be, but performance testing shows what they really are."

Sims' herd is the result of a successful combination of pedigree and testing. For him, that has resulted in basically a line-breeding of Emulous Angus operation.

His chief herd sire now is Pinkerton's Emulous B246, a bull he bought from Dr. J. T. Pinkerton of Tyler when the bull was 14 months old. The bull had been performance tested at the American Beef Evaluation Center at Ringling, Okla., where he posted a 4.14-pound per day gain on the official 140-day test. In the Ridgecrest herd, a majority of this bull's daughters are being bred A.I. to Garney Emulous 4056, who had the highest weight per day of age of any Garney-raised bull, weighing 1,323 pounds at 378 days of age, and posted a 3.67 pound weight per day of age as a yearling.

Sims says it costs about $350 to put a bull through a performance test, but he believes it's money well spent, because his calves have become "pleasantly predictable."

Sims lives in Fort Worth now and commutes the 90 miles to his ranch, doing most all of the work himself. He was born and raised in Phoenix, Ariz., and was a pilot in the Air Force during World War II. In 1946 he went to work for the Federal Aviation Agency as an air traffic controller in Los Angeles, Calif. He was transferred to Fort Worth in 1951. He bought the place south of Bonham in 1958 and his first registered Angus in 1962. Since then he's been upgrading his herd constantly.

Sims retired from the FAA in December 1974 as supervisor in the Fort Worth Air Traffic Control Center. "Now I spend my time primarily with my cattle, but my other hobbies are golf, camping and fishing," he says in some jest.

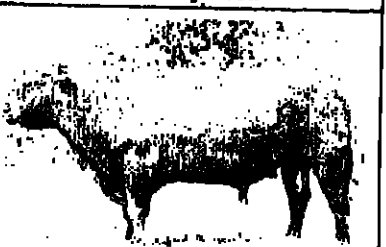

It isn't all jest, however, because Sims owns 55 acres and leases additional pasture on which he runs 34 breeding age females, and with calves, bulls and yearling replacement heifers, his herd varies from about 60 to 75 head of cattle. Most of his cattle are marketed through private treaty sales and Angus association consignment sales.

With a small operation, Sims has time left to work with other Angus people, and he has served as a director, secretary-treasurer, vice president, and president of the Mid-Tex Angus Assn. July 1. He was also chairman of the Mid-Tex Angus sale recently held in Fort Worth.

He was an alternate delegate to the Ernest W. Sims, owner of Ridgecrest Angus Farm located eight miles south of Bonham, Texas, is shown with an Angus bull he had tested at the American Beef Evaluation Center at Ringling, Okla. The bull had an A.H.I.R. adjusted weaning weight of 608 pounds, and gained 3.48 pounds per day on the 140-day test.

Pinkerton's Emulous B246, shown at 40 months when he weighed 1,800 pounds in pasture condition, is Ernie Sims' Ridgecrest Farms' chief herd sire. The triple-bred "Big 70" bull is from Dr. J. T. Pinkerton's herd, and ticks perfectly into Sims' program of basically line-breeding Emulous cattle.

American Angus National Convention last year in Louisville, Ky., and plans to attend the national convention again this year.

Sims believes that a good example of his breeding program is the last bull he had tested. The son of Pinkerton's Emulous B246 weighed 1,089 at 18 1/2 months of age, had weighed an actual 530 pounds at weaning, but had an adjusted weaning weight of 608 pounds because he was a heifer's first calf. In Sims' herd, the bull indexed 118, had measurements of 50 inches hip to pin, and 50 inches crop to neck to hip.

Sims believes the Emulous bloodline is contributing substantially to "make Angus conform to current ideals in beef cattle standards, and he also believes it's largely due to performance testing. "There's more records behind Emulous than any other bloodlines or breed of cattle, and it has resulted in culling our inferior cattle, and leaving the best," Sims says.

a name synonymous with performance... and backed with integrity.

Texas Angus Bull Test Changed To Contemporary Bull Development Program, New Test Starts June 24

Era, Texas — The Texas Angus Association's official Contemporary Bull Development Program, formerly called a Performance Bull Test, will begin in late June with senior bulls born Oct. 1 to Nov. 15, 1976 to be delivered to the test site June 24-26, and junior bulls born Nov. 16 to Dec. 31, delivered July 22-23. These bulls will complete their development program Dec. 31 in time for the "Top Cut Angus Sale" at the Fort Worth Stock Show in January 1978.

Robert R. Petty, Jr., Nolan, chairman of the committee, said for the last six years the Texas

Angus Assn. has provided the annual bull gain tests leading to the Show.

"However, these gain tests really have attempted to measure more than gain or weight at a given age. Structural correctness, carcass composition and acceptable through impartial judging has been stressed. After thorough analysis, discussion and soul searching, the Test committee believes some changes need to be made to emphasize shifted. In the Contemporary Bull Development Program

A real herd sire prospect, above, is the result of careful planning by Ernie Sims, owner of Ridgecrest Farms near Bonham, Texas. He is an A.I. son of Ankonian Dynamo 2764 out of a grand daughter of Emulous 795 and a daughter of Emulous 848 cow.

This is the kind of young cows Ernie Sims believes will have a great future in the Angus breed. Sims doesn't use any bull that hasn't been performance tested or shown successfully. She's a daughter of Emulous Pride 127, 100 percent certified meat sire.

...but this is not economically feasible at this time—hence the program will be to get a comparison of each breeder's cattle with its contemporaries on weight gain, frame growth, carcass composition and industry acceptability.
Any breeder may put proper aged bulls born September through December, 1976, which have undergone the required health program in the test, and withdraw them anytime he wishes if he so desires. Data will not be published on any of the bulls if the owner so desires.
Approximate cost of the program is $300 per bull.
For Top Cut sale eligibility September bulls will be eliminated and only the October-December bulls approved for this sale. Only those bulls initially nominated by the breeders are eligible for selection to the Top Cut Sale, but a breeder may choose not to offer his bull for sale after nomination.
Serving on the Contemporary Bull Development Program committee with Petty are Jack Bear-den, Wichita Falls, Carlton Corbin, Fittstown, Okla., Vernon Schmidt, McGregor, Dr. Bob Browning, Richardson, and Larry Brown, Mexia. Any of these men or Dale Over-peck, Secretary-Fieldman, Texas Angus Assn., 109 Livestock Exchange Bldg., Fort Worth, Texas 76106, phone 817/625-2783, can provide further information on the program.

The livestock and meat trade and this has come as more than somewhat of a surprise to veteran observers of this business.
For years & years the law enforcement people and inspectors for the Southwestern Cattle Raisers Assn., had run up some pretty good scores in catching & convicting livestock thieves, only to see their courts deal out a slap on the wrist or a suspended sentence and very few times punishment enough to make the crook genuinely regret his crime.
The wheel has turned as the prosecutors have at long last recognized the seriousness of the situation and that theft, embezzlement and swindling in livestock and meat transactions is every bit as serious as these same practices in other economic fields.
Hardly a week goes by now when our mail does not bring news of some culprit getting hit and hit hard for dishonesty. History is replete with instances of where farmers and ranchers were not paid for their livestock, and many of the failures were on par with the ABP affair, but simply did not involve as much money.
One other thing that has been a great help in bringing these practices under control is the fact that the livestock producers and feeders are giving some real ability to take their case to the authorities through their livestock and farm organizations. They have developed the ability to "sound off" and to do it by presenting a unified front against practices that have been harmful to them.
For too many years the farm and ranch folks were inclined to go their own individual ways, and not at all inclined to work together against things that were too big for them to handle alone.
More power to the Justice Department and the Packers and Stockyards Administration and to the livestock associations and feeders associations and with the way things seem to be going right now one of the main hazards of their business of providing food for the United States and the rest of the world can be eliminated. If they keep the pressure on the bad guys and get the crooks outta circulation or hit 'em hard enough in the pocketbook to take the fun out of dishonesty.

Y-TEX TICK TAG

• Quick — One Second to apply
• Effective — Kills Ear Ticks

• Inexpensive — Only $1.00 per cow
• Long-lasting — All Season Long

Just in time — season-long control of the Gulf Coast Ear Tick and a great reduction in the chance of screw worm attack on cattle ears — thanks to "TICK TAG", impregnated with the insecticide, "DURSABAN".
The cost is low, the savings are high in terms of reduced weight loss and high cost of other methods of ear tick control. The "TICK TAG" is clear plastic and blends into any herd color, does not interfere with identification ear tags and installs quickly with the proven Y-TEX push-pull applicator.
TICK TAGS are packed 20 per carton along with a free Y-TEX applicator. That's enough to protect 10 animals and it costs only $10.00. Ask for them wherever animal health products are sold. If they don't have it in stock they can get it for you in one day.

Remember, an ounce of prevention is worth pounds of cure!

Chemical Warfare

slaughter without following the proper withdrawal time for the sulfa drugs. Feed mixups or animal mixups which allow animals to consume medicated feed right up to marketing. Failure to clean feeders, mixing equipment and feed bins prior to adding non-medicated feed and swine marketing practices not conducive to withdrawing the drug at the proper time, such as selling hogs when the market takes an upturn, even though these hogs have been consuming medicated feed.

Casper related proposed actions such as extended withdrawal periods for sulfa drugs, more vigorous followup inspections and prosecution of violators, as well as additional educational programs. With the highly refined methods of searching for residues, which enable detecting of traces of residues in the parts per billion range, the threat of prosecution of violators becomes a serious one to feeders who play fast and loose with the regulations on withdrawal periods. Meanwhile, Commissioner Donald Kennedy's plan to halt the use of antibiotics as a feed additive in sub-therapeutic amounts and to allow use of these drugs only on a veterinary's prescription, has been received coolly by the vets. Veterinarians say the matter of prescribing antibiotics will increase their responsibilities and liabilities and this procedure would be hard to police. There is also the matter of a scarcity of vets in many sections of the country which would pose problems for livestock producers who need the drugs.

It is obvious that the FDA, under guidance of Dr. Kennedy, has no intention of relaxing their "chemical warfare" against drugs, pesticides and insecticides which they suspect might be harmful, even though the product has not proven to be hazardous. It is also obvious that President Carter is fully informed of these moves and is backing them.

An example of how the FDA is fighting back at critics surfaced this week in the matter of the proposed ban on saccharin. FDA counterattacked opponents of the ban by coming up with another convenient Canadian study which claimed to have illustrated that a percentage of men, who developed bladder cancer, had also been users of the artificial sweetener, although comparable questionnaires on women failed to show similar results. The saccharin ban had been opposed by Sen. Ted Kennedy, who had suggested an 18-month delay until more definitive tests could be made under U.S. supervision. The "new" Canadian "proof" was rushed by Dr. Kennedy to Senator Kennedy to try to stall congressional action. There can be no doubt, the battle has been joined between chemical manufac-

Synchronization Permits Collier

Diamond C To A. I. 300 Cows One Day

Stephenville, Texas—Collier Diamond C Ranch, long-time innovator in beef cattle breeding techniques, has started a new experiment designed to greatly reduce the time and labor of artificial insemination, yet make maximum use of the ranch's two Simmental herd sires.

Synchronization of estrus or "heat" of large groups of females so that they can all be bred A. I. on one day is the object of the experiment.

"This will not only enable us to breed a large group of cows one day, but should result in a highly uniform calf crop," said John B. Collier IV, general manager of the ranch.

Working with the Curtis Breeding Service division of Searle Agriculture, Elburn and DeKalb, Ill., the ranch has synchronized estrus of 76 heifers and bred them one day, and 300 cows and bred them one day a few days later.

Arnold Peterson, ruminant physiologist with Searle Agriculture, directed the project.

American Simmental Assn. Introduces Colorful New Registration Certificates

Since June 3, Simmental breeders registering animals with American Simmental Association have been receiving attractive new registration certificates designed to provide them with more clear and complete performance and pedigree information. The new certificates are the first of many items being issued by ASA as part of a redesigned package of performance evaluation and registration materials, according to Don Vanman, ASA executive secretary.

"Preparation of our new Handwritten performance evaluation systems has involved redesigning all of the forms we use for communication" (CONT. ON PAGE 11) the female's ear for nine days, then is removed. If the cows have calves on them, the calves are separated from the cows when the implants are taken out of the ear.

"The females start coming into heat in 24 to 30 hours, and by 38 hours after the implants and calves are removed, the cows are really actively in heat and ready to breed in the next 12 hours," Peterson said.

Although this is the first time such an experiment has been done on the Collier Diamond C Ranch, Peterson and others have used the same technique on a 1,000-cow herd in the Western U.S., both with a relatively high degree of success.

With experienced A. I. technicians, we have attained 50-55 percent conception rates with the first breeding. Then by re-breeding the remainder in the next 21 days, we have gotten another half, or more, of them pregnant, so that in one short breeding period 75 to 80 percent pregnancies are not unusual," Peterson said.

In the Diamond C Ranch's case, the two herd bulls being used A. I. will be turned in after the final A. I. breeding, to do their own clean-up work. One called "Brutus" is an outstanding Simmental sire with great length and muscling, as well as breed conformation and bone structure, that Diamond C has been permitting other Simmental breeders to use for a $1,000 breeding fee. The other Diamond C bull being used is called "Togo," and is a similarly outstanding sire. Togo sired the highest selling heifers at the last Simmental sales at the Fort Worth Stock Show and the Eastern National Sale in Louisville, Ky.

There are several advantages to using synchronization as part of the A. I. technique," Peterson said. One is that no "spotter" bull is needed for heat detection. Another is that females can be induced into estrus and re-bred somewhat earlier than normal, usually starting breeding within 60 days after calving, so that even the clean-ups are usually bred in 85 days.

with our members, including our registration certificates and other items not directly used for submitting herd performance data to our office," he said.

"We feel it important to make the appearance of all of our forms match the efficiency of our performance testing programs."

Vanman noted that eight other breed associations have adopted the computerized performance testing system developed by American Simmental Association, using it to performance test, register and transfer their cattle, and keep their membership records. ASA was the first American beef breed association to make performance testing mandatory to registration.

For Simmental breeders, it will be a little like getting used to a new currency," said Vanman. The face of the new certificate gives the animal's performance pedigree, showing calving, weaning and yearling performance reported through three generations. The certificate notes the percent of Simmental blood in the animal and its ancestors, gives their horned, polled or scurred status.

Flying V Simmental Sale Set Sept. 24

Decatur, Texas — Myrt Vittow's Flying V Ranch will hold its 6th annual Simmental production sale at the ranch on Saturday, Sept. 24 with an offering of 100 purebloods including 10 imported bulls and 90 females.

The ranch facilities include a new, modern sale barn, and a 2700-foot sand landing strip for small aircraft to land adjacent to the headquarters. It is located three miles northwest of Decatur just west of U.S. Highway 287.

Further information on the sale offering is available from Vittow by calling 817/627-2814.

after calving, the time-cycle necessary for producing a calf each 12 months.

"We know of no abnormalities caused by this technique," Peterson said. "The multiple-birth factor is not affected so there's no more than the normal occasional sets of twins; the calves are born normal, and over about a 14-day period (because of the normal differences in the various females gestation period); and no more than normal handling of the cows is required."

When the cattle are penned and driven through a chute, the implants can be made at the rate of a cow per minute or so, and can be removed in a similarly short time.

On June 3, when 800 halfblood and three-quarter Simmental cows were A.I.-ed, four technicians each bred about 75 cows as fast as cowboys could put them through the chutes.

Drugs used in this process are all products which appear naturally and there is no dissolving of the implant so that none of the chemical goes into the cow's body. However, the chemical compound is still in an experimental stage and has not been given approval for general use by the U.S. Food & Drug Administration. In the Diamond C experiment, as in others where it has been used, complete detailed reports are being made to FDA, and final reports will follow as and after the calves are born, so the use of the technique can be evaluated for possible approval for general use.

"We believe it's going to be a lot easier to watch 300 cows while they are calving over a short period, than the same number calving over a long period," Collier said.

"And it's sure a lot easier for four technicians to breed 300 cows in one day than to breed them over a long period when they are coming into heat naturally," he added.

Cost of the technique, including manufacture and distribution of the implants, is still not fully known, but Peterson said he believes it can be kept low enough to add no significant expense to the A. I. program of any size breeding herd.

Milestones Reached In Screwworm Program

Mission - The U.S. Department of Agriculture Screwworm Eradication Program reached two milestones in the "Mission 77: Stamp Out Screwworms" campaign on June 17, reports Dr. James E. Novy, director of field operations.

It was the end of the first week since April that no screwworm cases were recorded in Texas. The latest confirmed case, from Brewster County, was identified in the laboratory June 9.

It was also the end of the first Texas week since June 20, 1964, that Texas was screwworm free. In years before the program started, June was normally the month with most severe screwworm problems.

Novy says 29 cases of the parasite have been recorded in Texas so far this year. By June 17 of last year the total was 3,441.
